LEFT TOWN .- The Fredericksburg Ledger says: "We understand there are no less than twenty-two beautiful and educated marriagesble girls at Port Royal, and not one marriageable man." The reception of this pleasing intelligence into our sanctum yesterday, entirely upset the equanimity of the gentleman who wields the editorial pen for the Index. All the forepart of the day he was reserved and thoughtful, and at times wild and incoherent. The first place which will bring him up will be Fredericksburg, whence, having procured credentials from the Ledger office, he will at one proceed to Port Royal to try his fortune. The readers of the Index will make a note of this, and let it be the excuse for any lack of editorial matter. — Petersburg

Van Dorn; and which stolen property he proposed to restore to the State for the sum of five hundred dollars. He also informed the Governor that this price could be obtained from other parties; but that he preferred giving the first chance to the
